Spinehealing

is a very interesting energy. It changes the person's outlook on life, on his possibilities and his future movements. It is a cleansing of the mind, the organs, the body tissues and the consciousness about life itself. It is a gift to mankind that changes the vibration of the person that has received this healing.

It is a change of consciousness that is operating on all levels of the person and so powerful, that it can change the body in a split second. The body recognises instantly, that a major shift has taken place and readily accepts the new concept. It is ready for a change in every second and this profound experience is never to be forgotten by the person that has experienced it.

An onlooker will be profoundly shaken in his beliefs about what is possible.

The person himself, who has experienced it, will later be ready to shed even more crippling beliefs and become freer, more relaxed, more in contact with his inner core.

It is a healing that does not need to be repeated, as the imprint on the consciousness is so deep. Actually, it is an expression on consciousness itself, that expresses its inner truth and in doing so, frees the person from old bondage in the 3D reality. It is a tool for ascension into your own truth, into your inner core, into your inner awareness and ability to change your life into what you choose it to be, into what you want it to be.

The goal of Spinehealing is to unite you with your inner centre, with your inner goal, with your indwelling spirit that is the very core of you. You have the possibility of adjusting all the old patterns and let go of all those that do not serve you anymore and keep those, that you want to keep.

The choice happens on a soul level and is not always visible in your life at once, it will show when you choose to be open for the changes.

You can choose to invite in your soul level into your daily life by focussing on it and asking it to manifest itself in your daily life. You will feel the benefit of this in enhanced awareness upon your choices, if they feel in alignment with your soul. It is a gradual process and takes some commitment to make it happen.

Your soul is most happy to be of service to you and will help you to commit yourself to your path. What is the goal of your life? What is it that makes your heart sing?

Spinehealing is an aide in that process of becoming, who you truly are. It is an aide in the process of being able to discern between what serves you and what serves you not. It is an aid in the process of wanting to be what you are, to find into your inner core and stillness, if you so choose.
